REUNION COMM: PIEB.

Little Family Affair Stiered Up Finally Ends Yesterday was general all round settle ment day in reunion circles and every-thing went off harmoniously tili about noon, when one of the committee who had charge of an important financial depart ment of the reunion, turned over all the funds collected by him with the exception of $400 which he thought he should retain as compensation for personal services and personal efforts. In the bylaws of mmittee a provision was contained, which said that no person should receive pay for his services except the quartermasters and, of course, a little breeze was raised over the incident. Warm blood circulated in the veins of the boys and the matter caused a little excited feeling. A meeting of the committee was held in the afternoon and the blood of some of the members still being warm, expressions and statements were made by both sides to the difficulty that caused some temporary bitterness of teeling. A settlement, however, on a satisfactory basis looked more probable than it did earlier in the Peacemakers went to work and when the committee met last night the silver lining in the clouds of misunderstanding was visible, and after two hours of reasoning everything was arranged on a satisfactory basis and everybody went home feeling good and thanking their stars that this little trouble was wiped out from the unprecedently successful records

SECOND ILLINOIS CAVALRY BOYS IN KANSAS,

During the late reunion the veterans of During the late reunion the veterans of the Second Illinois cavalry in Kausas enjoyed themselves so hugely that they were not entirely satisfied with a grand reunion, consequently Comrade C. E. Burrows and some other moving spirits posted notices on the grounds calling a meeting of the regiment at the city building on Aug. 18. The boys responded heartily to the call, and when the meeting was brought to order a generous representation. The second line is that was the name by which he was known, actually looked up with something akin to surprise on his face, but instantly all that seemed like interest faded out of his look and his eyes dropped again. I repeated the words "God loves you." After I first spoke them I asked myself inwardly, do I believe that? Their repeated iteration gave me confidence until my wholr soul was brought to order a generous represenheartily to the call, and when the meeting was brought to order a generous representation was present. The meeting was organized by electing T. J. Simpson of Newton president and C. E. Scranton of La Crosse secretary. Secretary Scranton read a communication from the general secretary, requesting the members of the Second regiment to meet at the regimental reunion to be held at Warsaw, Ill., on Sept. 27 and 28, 1892. THE POWER OF LOVE.

To the Editor of the Eagle. When Rev. W. C. Veazie was holding a series of meeting in wichita two years ago be parriated an incident that came within his own experience in Colorado some years since that was received with some of the evangelist's hearers with incredulity, they pronouncing it to exaggerated to believe. This fact being reported to Mr. Veazie be furnished proof of a substantial character to vindicate his own truthfullness. Recently in the city again, holding a meeting on Fairmount he repeated the story by request and gave the writer the name and address of a merchant of Hutchinson who was at that time doing business next door to the building in Pueblo in which the subject of the story was converted. The details of the parrative are herewith furnished, in the belief that they will be interesting to many of your readers.

Mr. Venzie was pastor of a church in Pueblo and in the course of a revival was making much of the love and grace of God, declaring that God loves every human being and that His grace is sufficient to save any one. One morning as he was in his study, one of the deacons of his church, who had found himself unable to accept everything his pastor had said as to the everything his pastor had said as to the chair, as if such an article could have no place for him, but crouched on the floor in the corner of the room with his hands clasped about his knees and his face half hidden behind them, while his small, animal eyes peered stupidly out from an ugly, swollen, disfigured, bloody face. The night before, with his hands tied benind his back, he had in a saloon fought a badger with his teeth for all the whisky he could drink. As the deacon threw out his challenge at me, I contess my heart almost sauk within me and I had to cast about to see if my feith in the gospel I had been preaching was equal to the occasion. Presently, withous waiting for preliminary remarks, I uttered the only words that I could find to say. "God loves you." "Kelley the bum," for that was the name by which he was known, actually looked up with ugly, swotlen, disfigured, bloody face. The

FLIRTATION AT WELLINGTON,

Ministerial Association Met to Devise

A gentleman who came up from Wellington yesterday informed an EAGLE reporter that a big mass meeting under the auspices of the Ministerial association had been held there the previous night which was causing a good deal of talk among the people of that city. The meeting was not for the purpose of making war on King Alcohol, as is usually the case, but for the remarkable purpose of devising some means and ways of stopping flirtation in the city between boys and girls. Now this may stem odd and funny but the gentleman vouches for its truth for he was at the meeting himself. Rev. Mr. Botkin formerly of this city was one of the speakers and with furnished, in the belief that they will he gave a graphic account of a trip he made through the city one night. It was while a patent medicine showman was there and he actually saw a girl wave her handkerchief three times at some young

Just think of a young lady in this era of Christian grace and moral refinement waving a delicate handkerchief three times everything his pastor had said as to the possibilities of grace, came in, bringing a creature with him who he half dragged, half led into the room and dropped on the floor, saying to the preseder "There's a case for you to try your hand on." The evangelist said, in relating the occurrence, "there was the vitest, most abject and most detestable specimen of humanity before me I ever saw. He refused to take a chair, as if such an article could have no young lady would so badly abuse that young lady would so badly abuse that freedom by waying a handkerchief three times at young men. They would have spared themselves the trouble, no doubt, of fighting the battles of independence. People talk Anarchists waving rags and throwing bombs into policemen, and all that sort of thing, and yet they have utterly failed in all this time to condemn such an outrage as waving a white handkerchief at young men of delicate nerves such as the Wellington boys are, Rev. Mr. Penick spoke and deplored the fact that he had no conversions in his church for six months, all of which he attributed to the practice of flirtation by the young people of the city. Another minister said that he had heard | trie car line. that some of the young ladies of the city were seen waving their bandkerchiefs at runners or drummers near the Arlington hotel while another said that he had heard one of his parishioners say that she saw a society young lady waving her bandkerchief at a brakeman while the train was passing the depot. It would seem utterly impossible to the ordinary Wichita mind that such things could be done at Wellington or anywhere else but the gentleman who talked to the reporter said he heard the ministers say so with his own ears and that he knows them to be very reputable men. Rev. Denman said he had to keep his children at home altogether on account of the flirting tendencies of the young people whom they would be naturally compelled to associate more than this. He saw a young lady and | hood. gentleman walking on the street one night so close together that it seemed to him one of them had an arm around the waist of the other. The meeting, the gentleman stated, was an exciting one and ended in a committee being appointed, of which Hon. Jacob Stotler was chairman, to visit the council and prevail upon them to pass such laws as will stamp out Mrs. Wise and daughter, Marguerrette, every vestige of flirtation from the streets of Hutchinson have been in the city sevof Wellington.
